

Dear Hiring Manager,

I am thrilled to apply for the Senior Software Engineer (Platform, DevEx) position at Gelato, where I can leverage my skills to drive innovation in the print industry. With a strong background in software development and a passion for AI-driven solutions, I am confident that I would be a valuable addition to your team.

As a seasoned software engineer with experience in building scalable and efficient systems, I am impressed by Gelato's commitment to sustainability and its impact on the environment. I am excited about the opportunity to work on the Internal Developer Platform (IDP) and contribute to the development of internal tools, APIs, and automation that streamline developer workflows. My experience with CI/CD pipelines, including Argo CD and Helm, aligns with the job requirements, and I am eager to bring my expertise to Gelato.

I am particularly drawn to Gelato's AI-first approach and the use of AI-native builders to accelerate innovation. My experience with AI-driven development and autonomous agents resonates with Gelato's vision, and I am enthusiastic about contributing to the development of AI-native product features. I am impressed by the company's culture of continuous experimentation and its commitment to staying at the forefront of technological advancements.

I would welcome the opportunity to discuss my application and how my skills and experience align with Gelato's vision. Thank you for considering my application. I look forward to the opportunity to contribute to Gelato's mission.

Best regards,

Asim Bilal